He Kept A Promise

When W. C. Cyrus' son, Wayne, left for Vietnam last April, the two hunters promised each other they'd go after a big gobbler this spring, if they could. Wayne is back and both he and his dad each bagged a big gobbler. This one is a 16 pounder with a 9 inch beard taken Tuesday morning by W. C. Cyrus. Standing with him, Mrs. W. H. Almond, mother of Mrs. Cyrus (Catherine). It takes skillful hunting to bring a turkey – but note that it takes a good cook to make the day a real success! W. C. Cyrus lives at Va. Beach.

Missionary Nurse Works 23 Years With Baptist Health Service

Not many people would volunteer to serve as a missionary in a leprosarium but to stay there for 23 years seems to be quite a record.

Miss Hazel Moon has been a missionary nurse in Nigeria for that many years. She is now at home in Appomattox on a one-year furlough.

Administrator of the Baptist Health Service where leprosy patients are treated, she is the only missionary nurse working with the patients, but a doctor comes to the leprosarium one day each week. There is also one Nigerian male nurse who works in the hospital with her.

The leprosarium has a 36-bed hospital, an elementary school, and an organized church. These buildings and two dormitories for the approximately 180 leprosy patients are located on a 140 acre farm.

In her public health work, Miss Moon travels to other villages giving preventive treatment for children's diseases and working with tuberculosis patients.

The Baptist Health Service is located three miles from Ogbomsho, where other missionaries live. There are hospitals, city water, or telephone at the service center. Rain water is stored in underground tanks, the missionary said. Since coming home, she has spoken at a few church group meetings.

According to the latest World Almanac, most of the Christian Nigerians are in the southern part of this african nation, which has been the scene of many political disturbances leading to civil war since its separation from Britain in 1960.

Larger than Texas and Oklahoma combined, Nigeria became a republic within the British Commonwealth on October 1, 1963, and is a member of the United Nations.

FFA Chapter Wins Hub Team Contest

The Appomattox County High School FFA Degree Team placed first in the annual FFA Hub Federation Degree Team Contest, which was held on April 16, at Amherst County High School.

A degree team contest consists of the regular FFA opening ceremony, and a problem which the team is given 8 minutes to solve using correct Parlimentary Procedure. The team does not know what the problem will be until it is announced by the judge during the contest. The contest is concluded by the Green Hand Initiation Ceremony.

This contest is part of the Leadership training program offered to all students of Agriculture Education at the Appomattox County High School.

The Appomattox team will represent the Hub Federation in the Area Contest to be held April 25 at Rusburg High School.

Compact 20" (measured diagonally) Quasar II ColorTV with the "works in a drawer"

Has the same "works in a drawer" to help keep it at home working as the famous console model.

These "works" are solid state*, plug-in mini-circuits that are designed for greater reliability and stay at-home dependability. They also help Quasar II retain new set color, new set sound, new set sharpness. Plug-in mini-circuits mean quick, easy replacement usually in the home, if a mini-circuit should ever fail.

And Motorola has introduced IC's into Quasar II Color TV's chassis. These advanced solid-state devices provide increased performance and reliability in color and sound.

Of course, this compact Quasar II has The Bright Tube for brilliant color viewing, and automatic fine tuning for easy, true color tuning. Walnut grain vinyl clad metal cabinet.

*Solid state except for 4 tubes and picture tube.

Compact price, too. $519.95
